

We Remember How It Felt

Lisette Diaz-Santiago, Ed.M. · HuLux Innovations · Boston, MA, USA

From the work of MemoriGems — exploring voice, memory, and connection

Memory isn't something we simply keep or lose.

It lingers in warmth, in recognition, in the feeling of being known.

A familiar voice.

A shared rhythm.

A quiet presence.

These moments are not always measurable — but they are deeply felt.

*Memory is not only something we recognize — it is something we carry, share, and offer.