

REPRODUCTIVE HEALTH MATTERS

“For Women And Gender-Diverse People
Who Use Drugs in Greater Jakarta”

Rosma Karlina

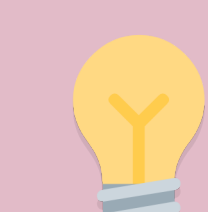

Director of Suar Perempuan Lingkar Napza Nusantara

Why It Matters

Sexual and reproductive health is essential to improving the quality of life—especially for Women And Gender-Diverse People Who Use Drugs (WUD). In Indonesia, stigma, discrimination, and limited services create major barriers to their health and well-being.

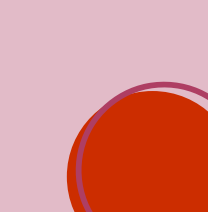

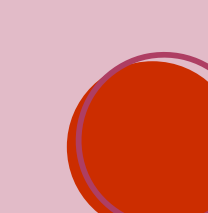

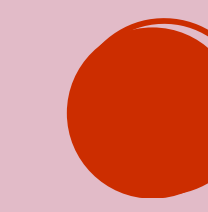

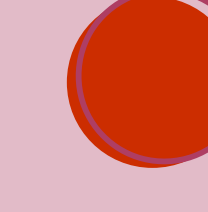

Our Goals

-  Identify gaps and barriers in reproductive health services
-  Explore the Women And Gender-Diverse People who use drugs
-  Recommend inclusive and stigma free healthcare solutions

What We Did

-  Online Survey
99 respondents shared their experiences
-  Focus Group Discussions
10 participants gave deeper insights

Our Recommendation

-  Build friendly, Inclusive, and stigma-free services
-  Strengthen community-based support & referral systems
-  Train healthcare providers for sensitive and inclusive care
-  Advocate for policies that prioritize vulnerable groups

Key Findings

-  Majority aged 31–40, with high school education
-  Many are NGO workers, housewives, sex workers
-  High prevalence of drug use and risky sexual behavior
-  Trans women face higher risks
-  Limited access to reproductive services, especially without health insurance
-  Barriers: Cost, distance, time, and discrimination
