

ENHANCING HIV SERVICES THROUGH COMMUNITY-CENTRIC APPROACHES: LESSONS FROM A HARM REDUCTION PROJECT IN IVORY COAST

Authors SIDOINE AHO COULIBALY, MATHIEU HIE , MELINA TAILLADE, HERVE N'DA

BACKGROUND

Founded in 1980, Doctor of the World is an international humanitarian organization. Operating in France and 17 other countries, the NGO carries out development programs and emergency missions in 34 countries, thanks to the commitment of its employees, volunteers and staff from a wide range of spheres.

From 2015 to 2023, the NGO and its implementing partners have set up in Côte d'Ivoire a harm reduction project among people who use drugs (PWUD), which aimed at reducing TB, HIV/AIDS-related morbidity and mortality.
