State-of-the-art strategies that prioritize the conservation of anatomy, physiology, and function in hemorrhoid management provide a revolutionary approach to care.Research findings highlight extremely favorable outcomes in concurrent internal (grade III and IV) and external hemorrhoids, associated with one or more of the following - secondary, circumferential, circumferentially protruding, highly vascular, and complicated hemorrhoids.
Gaining robust validation through higher levels of evidence will chart the course for future advancements

5PF The TRANSFORMATIVE STRATEGIES FOR HEMORRHOID MANAGEMENT- A NEW ERA OF PRESERVING ANATOMY, PHYSIOLOGY, AND FUNCTION- RETROSPECTIVE LONGITUDINAL CONSECUTIVE CASE SERIES

Dr. P. B. Patel, Shiv Shraddha Nursing Home, Gujarat, India

SAGES 2024:
Abstract ID 131257

Internal Grade III and IV Hemorrhoid Management

Objectives

Explores the "5PF" strategy, aiming to reduce hemorrhoidal plexus distensibility through Precise, Purposeful, Predictable and Personalized fibrosis without harming mucosa and sub mucosa.

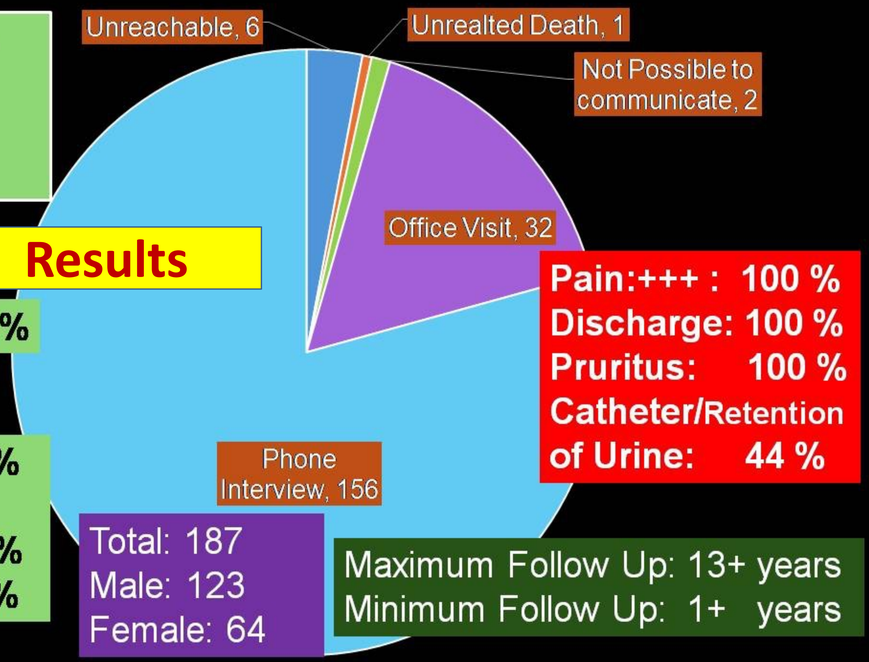

Method

Retrospective study involving 187 patients with a follow-up ranging from 13+ years, minimum follow-up of 1 year.

Results

Recurrence: 0%
Anal Stricture: 0%
Incontinence: 0%
Reoperation: 0%

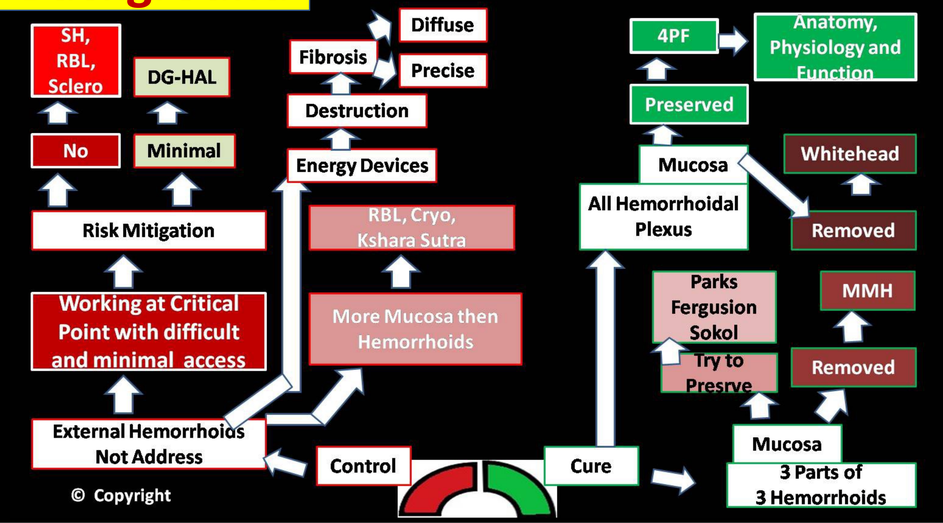

Satisfaction: 100%

Pain:+++ : 100 %
Discharge: 100 %
Pruritus: 100 %
Catheter/Retention of Urine: 44 %

Relatives: 33%
Ref. by Patients and relative: 58%
Total Ref: 91%

Background

Conclusions

1. State-of-the-art strategies that prioritize the conservation of anatomy, physiology, and function in hemorrhoid management provide a revolutionary approach to care. Research findings highlight extremely favorable outcomes in concurrent internal (grade III and IV) and external hemorrhoids, associated with one or more of the following - secondary, circumferential, circumferentially protruding, highly vascular, and complicated hemorrhoids.
2. Gaining robust validation through higher levels of evidence will chart the course for future advancements.
3. Prioritizing a research endeavor of substantial value like this, which encompassing short, medium, long, and very long-term implications will have very high impact on society.